We'll be meeting on Friday afternoon, 4-ish for anyone who wants to, at Lifestyles at 5900 4th Street North, St. Petersburg, (727) 521-1500, $15/day, $25/week. There's also a small lounge area at the front that I'm told we can slip into for those who don't want to train (and therefore don't want to pay a day pass). They expect the weight room to be pretty empty on Friday afternoon and those who want to train can take over an area without bothering anyone.

However, some of you may prefer to try the 54th Street Gym, a powerlifters' hangout, dungeon-style. We didn't pick this for the group because I was unable to talk with anyone there -- both Hugo and I called several times and it just goes to an answering machine, so that's too iffy for our group. Still, it might have been our first choice in terms of gym selection. Here's the info: 4195 54th Avenue North, (727) 525-6162.

There's a Gold's fairly close, too, at 203 38th Avenue NE, (727) 822-9394, $12/day/$35/week.

We chose the Lifestyles for the group in general after conversations with both Len and Hugo, who live there and know all the local gyms.

TooJays Deli at the Baywalk Center, 7pm

141 2nd Avenue N, Baywalk Plaza, (727) 823-3354

Casual, deli-style eating. They don't take reservations and will probably be busy on Friday night. Stand in line, grab your food and we'll try to grab some tables outdoors in the balmy Florida dusk. You may want to wander around the plaza after, or even catch the late show of The Hulk, which opens that night at the Baywalk20.

Brunch
St. Petersburg Hilton
333 1st Street South
10am-1pm, $10.95

Sunday mid-morning you can join your new IronOnline pals for a buffet brunch before heading out to continue your vacation as you adios to IOLers from around the world. Brunch location is the St. Petersburg Hilton from 10am-1pm, and then anyone who wants to will head to the Pier, where there's music that afternoon, a Classic Car show and the presentation of the Miss Florida contestants.

There's a trolley called the Looper that runs between the hotels and downtown to the Hilton, costs a buck to ride.
